Mike rode his bike home. He had to make a snack to take to an event. He was going to skate at a rink. The snack had to bake. When it was done, his mom drove him to the rink to skate.

When they got to the rink, Mike said, "Mom, I see my entire class." He got out and ran to see them.

"Hello," said Mike. "This is going to be a fun time for all of us."

They came up with a game. They had to skate around the rink and not trip to win a prize. They all began to skate. One by one they fell as they went around the rink. There were five who did not trip.

To see who would win, Mike said, "Let us see who can skate fast. The one who is around the rink first will win." They all got in a line.

Then Mike had his mom say, "1, 2, 3, GO!" The five went fast. Mike was one of the five. They all went so fast. Some fell. Some made a mad dash to the finish line. Mike and Kate got there first.

Kate came in first. Kate got the prize. Mike said to Kate, "Good job, Kate! That was a good contest!"

They all had a cupcake that Mike made for them. At last, it was time to go home. Mike said with a big smile, "Thank you all for a fun day!"
