It was Friday, and Jayvon was set to go to a pumpkin patch with his class for a hayride. He was going to school on the bus. There was a delay on the freeway, so he was late. By the time he got to school, his classmates were on the bus that would take them to the pumpkin patch.

When they got to the pumpkin patch, Jayvon and the rest of his class got off the bus. The first thing they saw was a tractor with a big buggy. There was a pile of hay bales in the buggy. "This is where you will sit," said the man on the tractor. "Just sit on the hay. Do not lay down or play around."

The kids got on the buggy and sat on the hay. The tractor began to pull the buggy. There were a lot of bumps on the path. The kids swayed with each bump.

The man on the tractor said, "Hang on!" They kept going until they came to a big pumpkin patch. All they could see were orange pumpkins all over the place! The man on the tractor said, "You can all take one pumpkin home."

Jayvon said to his class, "Let us go get a pumpkin!" They all got one to take home. They got back on the buggy, and the tractor kept going down the path.

The man on the tractor made a stop and said, "Shhh, look at the deer by the trees!" The kids were all silent. The tractor began to go again, and the kids held their pumpkins as it went down the path.

When they finished the ride, they got on the bus and went back to school. What a fun day for a hayride!
