Dean, Brandy, and I are best friends. We like to spend time with each other on weekends, so we made plans to take a big hike.

Dean is the best one to plan the trail, so that's his job.
Brandy is the best one to plan the meal, so that's her job.
I'm the best one to plan the packing, so that's my job.

We each began to plan. Suddenly, Dean asked, "Did one of you rent the truck?"

"We forgot!" we exclaimed. We had to take so much stuff that we would need a truck to get it all there.

Brandy had a friend, Beth, who had a truck. We had asked her to go, but she couldn't go that weekend. "Shouldn't we plan a weekend when Beth can go?" I asked. We need her truck, and it will be fun to have her with us.

We picked a weekend that Beth could go and began the plans. Beth hasn't been on a long hike, so this will be fun! She was glad we picked a date that she can go.

We made all of our plans, and that's when it was time to go! We packed our things in compact bags, so we didn't need to take the truck. Off we went on the long hike!
